In order to qualify as a resident engine, an owner and/or operator must prove to the Executive Officer that the engine meets the residency requirements of the Statewide Registration Program. Examples of adequate proof of residency are existing permits issued by an air district, tax records, and usage or maintenance records.

Choose how you plan to demonstrate that the engine qualifies as a resident engine:

1. Current Valid District Permit or Registration - choose this option if the engine has a current valid district permit or registration. Include the name of the district where permit or registration was obtained, the permit or registration number, and the date the permit or registration was issued. A copy of the permit or registration certificate should be attached. Please be aware that after December 31, 2005, no engines will qualify as resident engines.
2. Resided in California During the Period July 1, 2003 to July 1, 2004 - choose this option if the engine resided in the State of California during this period. Include substantiating documentation such as a company equipment inventory, purchase records, usage records, or maintenance records.
3. Printed Name of Responsible Party - Printed or typed name and official title of person signing and dating form.
4. Signature of Responsible Party with Date - Signature of responsible member of entity. (Application will not be accepted unless signed and dated.)

BACKGROUND:

Portable engines registered in the Statewide Registration Program may be required to meet daily, annual, or pollutant concentration emission limits depending on the resident status of the engine, the type of emission control devices it employs, the date the engine was manufactured, and if the engine or equipment unit is operated in the South Coast Air Quality Management District (SCAQMD).
